

Special town meeting Dec. 2

by Arlene Surprenant
Wilmington residents will be asked to vote on several articles at a special town meeting called for Monday, December 2.

According to Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, the meeting is necessary to approve additional funds for town insurance policies. Also on the warrant will be a funding increase requested by the Shawsheen Tech School Committee, a new bylaw, three rezoning articles and a request for a variance to allow David Axelrod to take a police exam. The warrant will remain open until Friday, Oct. 18.

Because of "dramatically" increased insurance costs, in some cases as much as 150 percent, the town is now faced with "a sudden shortfall," Stapczynski told selectmen Monday night. Approximately $300,000 had been appropriated last April for workers' compensation, auto, and other types of insurance, he added, but the town now finds itself facing an unforeseen $120,000 increase over that budgeted figure.

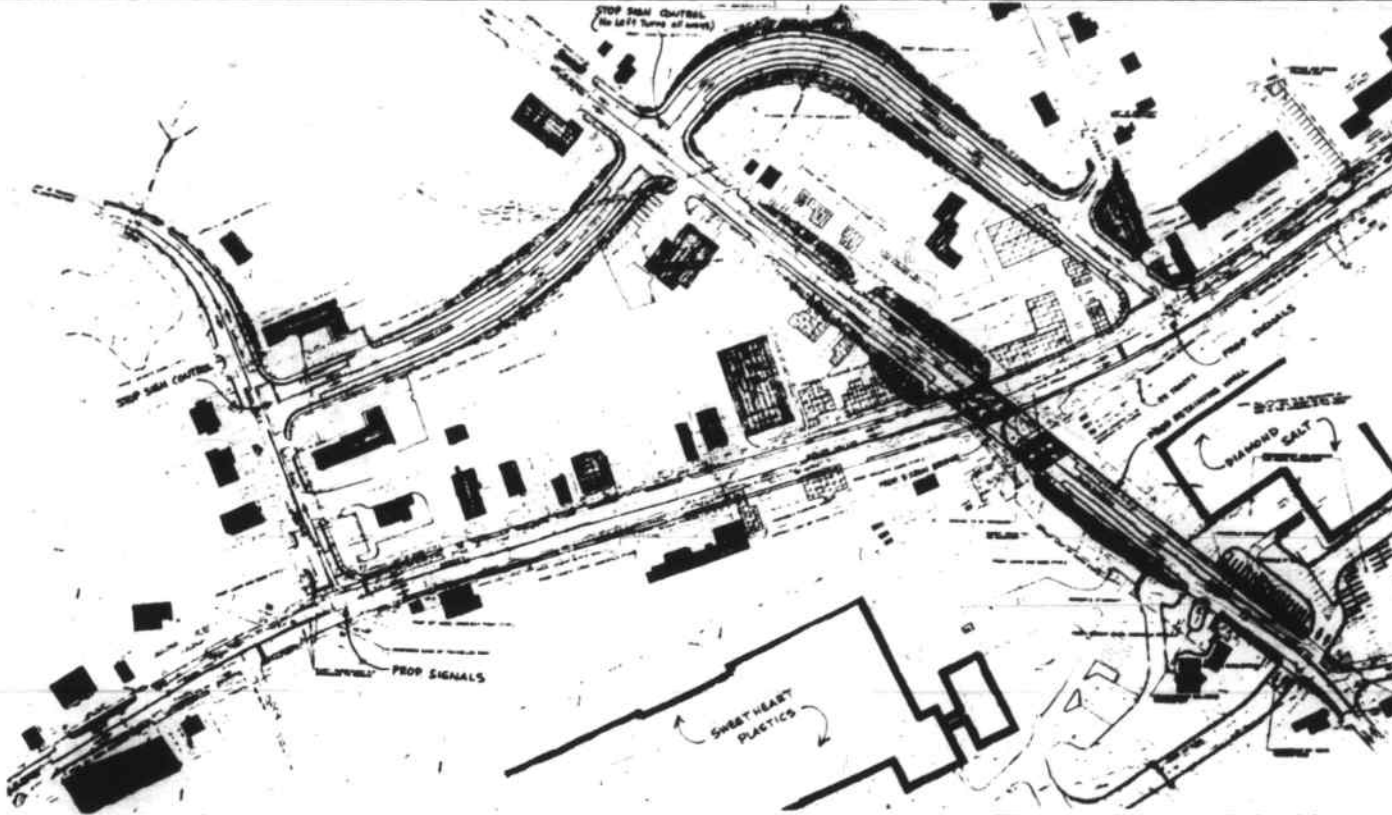

"If we want to continue insuring the town," explained Stapczynski, "this is the kind of problem we're facing." He did add, however, that he is presently looking at figures from other insurance companies for the same kind of coverage, as he can't recommend a $120,000 increase without first seeking other alternatives.

Stapczynski pointed out he was also informed by the Shawsheen Regional Technical School that it has approval to assess Wilmington $625,000. This reflects an additional $19,753 appropriation which must be approved through a town meeting vote. The other communities supporting the Tech have all agreed to higher assessments for the year, Stapczynski said.

Selectmen seemed to agree with Jim Stewart's suggestion not to accept any new funding requests other than these two emergency items at the December meeting. Instead, he said, budget items should traditionally be addressed at the annual town meeting.

The Underground Storage Bylaw will be placed on the warrant once it is finalized by the Bylaw Study Committee in the next few weeks. And requests to rezone property have been filed for the Roberts Estate off Burlington Avenue, for Hopkins Street and for West Street.

Proposed changes

1987 construction start in center

By-law committee to review underground storage law draft

Except for a few housekeeping changes and definitions, it looks like the draft Underground Storage Bylaw worked on by the Aquifer Protection Task Force last year may soon be placed on the books.

According to Bylaw Study Committee Chairman Bruce MacDonald, his board last week agreed that the task force did "a heck of a good job" in coming up with a strong law.

His committee will meet each Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. in the Town Hall to finalize the bylaw, which will be presented to voters for their approval at a special town meeting December 2.

The proposed by-law would regulate all underground tanks, requiring inspection of all tanks, and replacement of tanks more than 20 years old.

Representatives from the Mass. Department of Public Works (DPW) were present last Thursday to inform the Wilmington Redevelopment Authority (WRA) and interested citizens of the design plans for the Rte. 129 project. The three to five million dollar project, in essence, calls for the widening of the Burlington Avenue bridge area and the construction of two connector roads off Main Street to lessen traffic around the present town center.

The WRA has been accorded town meeting approval to oversee Wilmington Town Center revitalization and help relocate the approximately 12 businesses slated for demolition during the year long construction period.

According to Joe Libuda of Storch Engineering, the firm taking on the project, construction is scheduled for the late spring of 1987. It should take one and a half construction seasons to finish, he explained, with touchups done in the spring of 1988.

While construction is underway, said Libuda, the Burlington Avenue bridge will be closed to traffic and a temporary one-way detour set up. This will run from Aldrich and Boutwell Streets to Chestnut, Butters Row and back to Main Street.

So far, the plans have been submitted to the state and federal governments for comment as both governments will be footing the bill. Libuda hopes to hear from them by the end of September. Once done, this will pave the way for a public hearing on the plans in the late fall.

According to project engineer Andy Garrity, the town has the final say on the design, though he sees no real opposition to the project at this time.

WRA Chairman Jay Donovan pointed out that according to the plans, "It looks like what is now town center is pretty much wiped out."

Libuda agreed to his assessment, but added that this opens up an "excellent opportunity" for the town to pursue "something different." He explained that they tried to minimize any relocations but now it's up to the business owners, the town, and especially the WRA board to take a hard look at what they would like to do with the town center area once the traffic concerns are addressed.

The project is primarily aimed at eliminating traffic problems, he said, adding that "without any relief, you're not going to have a center."

After the meeting, Donovan said his board hopes to meet soon with representatives from EOCD and DPW and then go before the board of selectmen. This is necessary, he explained, to arrive at a consensus of where to locate the new town center. Once this is agreed on, his board will apply for a Commercial Area Revitalization District (CARD) as a first step toward revitalizing Wilmington Center.

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce

cordially invites all residents, business owners, and industrial and municipal representatives who are customers of the Reading Municipal Light Department to attend a

Department of Public Utilities hearing to be held in the auditorium of the Wilmington Town Hall on October 2nd at 7:00 p.m.

This is your chance to share your concerns regarding the present and future rates and practices of the Reading Municipal Light Department before the only regulatory agency which has any jurisdiction over our municipal light department.

Please join us to show the D.P.U. our common concern that all the towns served by the system be treated fairly, rather than one profiting at the expense of the others!

Jennifer Armstrong wins Chancellor's Award

The Wilmington High School administration has announced that Jennifer Armstrong has been selected a winner in the 1986 Chancellor's Award for Academic Excellence competition conducted April 29, 1985, on the Amherst Campus of the University of Massachusetts. The candidates receiving this recognition are outstanding Massachusetts high school students who have demonstrated high achievement in academics.

Boy, 7, dies when hit by car

A seven-year-old boy died on Sunday afternoon when he was struck by a car near his home on Cunningham Street in Wilmington. James S. Lubanski was pronounced dead at the Regional Health Center.

The accident occurred shortly after 5 p.m. when the boy rode his "big wheel" tricycle into the street from the driveway of his home. The driveway is on an incline. The tricycle apparently went down the driveway and into the street, directly into the path of a car.

The driver of the car, James Litwinsky, 24, of 7 Fairfield Rd., Wilmington, was not charged with any offense by police.

A second-grade student at the Woburn Street School, Jimmy was the son of Stanley and Gail Lubanski.

Accident scene

Zambernardi saves man's life with CPR

A former Wilmington man teamed up with two other persons to save the life of a man involved in an accident in Randolph in June.

Edward Zambernardi, a nurse at New England Deaconess Hospital in Boston, was driving home from work on North Main Street in Randolph, at 5:50 p.m. on June 20 when a car ahead of him went off the road and hit a pole. The 76-year-old driver had suffered some sort of seizure and slumped onto the seat of the car.

In the next car was Randolph Auxiliary Police Officer Jim Lannon. Randolph Fire Lt. Richard Wells was in another nearby car, as was Zambernardi. All three were on the scene within seconds.

They found the victim, Luke Kramer of Randolph, with no breathing and no pulse. His legs were trapped under the dashboard, and he was pinned against the steering wheel.

Lt. Wells and Zambernardi initiated cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) to the victim while he was still pinned in the car, and were able to revive him. Police and fire emergency personnel arrived on the scene and extricated Kramer from the wreck. He was transported to the Milton Medical Center with a leg injury and internal injuries.

Zambernardi received a letter of commendation from the Randolph Police Department, crediting him with saving Kramer's life. A native of Wilmington, he is the son of Edith Zambernardi of Elwood Road. He lives in Randolph.

Seek playground named for bicycle accident victim

By this time next year, Wilmington may have a new basketball court-playground area if a group of parents have anything to say about it.

Spokeswoman Peggy Kane, representing friends and neighbors of Jason Stevenson, the youth killed in a bicycle accident this summer, came before the Board of Selectmen Monday night to explain their plans for a recreation area in his memory.

Plans call for refurbishing the present basketball court by adding playground equipment at the Walker School site off Church Street. The enclosed playground, explained Kane, would consist of several park benches, a swing set, jungle gym, merry-go-round and a sand area.

So far, close to $300 has been realized through a can and bottle drive and an undetermined amount has been raised from a weekend bike-a-thon. Pledges are still coming in, said Kane, and all monies are slated for playground equipment.

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, who told the board that the Walker school will definitely be demolished before the end of the construction season, agreed to a more active use for that parcel of land. It was originally slated for limited passive recreation use. Selectmen agreed with him as they voted four to one to allow a playground-recreation area dedicated to Stevenson to be located at the old school site.

Some ensuing discussion centered on whether the Walker School lot was the best spot for such an area because of proximity to main road and the possibility of liability suits against the town in case of accidents. Neil Topping made the observation that during Little League season it is the most populated area of town and it would be good to have a playground for younger siblings to play while games are underway. Selectman Jim Stewart called the area "a plus for all of us."

Rocco DePasquale suggested parents go over types of equipment and playground design and let the town take care of the basketball court as it should help support the proposal. Stewart suggested construction begin early next year.

Juvenile Diversion Program topic at October 1 Chemical People meeting

Kirseten Cronin, director of the Juvenile Diversion Program for the Middlesex County District Attorney's office will be the guest speaker at the October 1 meeting of the Chemical People to be held at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington. The meeting will begin promptly at 7:30.

"The purpose of this program is to provide selected juveniles with a personalized plan for therapeutic intervention, drug counseling, and restitution which will promote responsible behavior and foster respect for law and authority," said Cronin.

This new innovated program, developed by District Attorney Scott Harshbarger's office, in cooperation with area police, is an additional tool to support police and school authorities in their efforts to combat juvenile crime and drug use in school and in the community, and to alleviate crowded juvenile dockets and reduce the recidivism rate of young offenders.

First-time or early offenders will be referred directly to the District Attorney's Diversion program by juvenile officers in local police departments. Juveniles who successfully complete the program are afforded the benefit of prosecution being waived by the District Attorney, thus avoiding a delinquent adjudication and a juvenile record.

"This program is very exciting and parents should know more about it. Particularly single parents who need that extra support to force their children to get help. Parents should also know their rights and their children's rights should they be arrested. This meeting next week will give an excellent opportunity to communicate their concerns and needs to the director of this program," said Anne Linehan, chairman of the Wilmington Chemical People Task Force.

Hearing Oct. 2 on Reading Light issues

The general public is invited to a public hearing on the Reading Light issues to be held next Wednesday, October 2 in the Town Hall auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

According to Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, the Mass. Department of Public Utilities (DPU) notified the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce of the meeting via a phone call. As of Monday, neither the town nor the selectmen were notified of the impending hearing.

The meeting will be run by the DPU and is expected to cover material similar to that at the Reading public hearing held last spring. The DPU is seeking town input and public response, said Stapczynski.

MMWEC default would affect Reading Light

The possibility of default looms over the Mass. Municipal Wholesale Electric Co. (MMWEC), on its $600 million debt on the Seabrook nuclear project. A Boston Globe article on Tuesday said that MMWEC lacked the ability to pay the money due on the Seabrook notes, and also lacked the ability to raise the money.

MMWEC is a consortium made up of several Massachusetts municipal light departments, formed 10 years ago to enable the municipalities to buy power cheaply at wholesale rates. One of the members is the Reading Municipal Light Dept. (RMLD).

Wilmington is served by the RMLD, but has recently been investigating possibly breaking away from the RMLD system. The town of Wilmington and the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce have filed co-petitions before the Mass. Dept. of Public Utilities seeking investigation into the rates and practices of the RMLD.

If the Seabrook plant is ever finished, the towns in MMWEC will then have to begin paying for the plant, resulting in rate increases of seven or eight percent. Certain towns in MMWEC, including Hudson, bought more heavily into Seabrook, and face rate increases in the teens.

Should Wilmington be allowed to pull out of Reading Light, and if it can leave Reading's share of the Seabrook debt behind, it could result in a higher share of the debt being thrust on Reading customers.

Wilmington customers currently consume about 60 percent of the power sold by RMLD.

The town of Wilmington has hired the Cambridge consulting firm of Arthur D. Little, Inc. to investigate the possible courses for Wilmington. A recent ADL report cited the possibility of cogeneration of electricity, possibly by gas.

Voter registration in Tewksbury Friday

The Tewksbury Board of Registrars has scheduled a voter registration session for Friday, September 27 from 8:30 a.m. until 8 p.m. at the Town Hall.

Elizabeth Carey, town clerk, informs residents who have not registered to vote that this is the last day and hour to register so as to be able to vote in the upcoming

October 7 Special Town Meeting.

Residents who will be 18 years of age on or before October 7, 1985 may register to vote at this time. Identification will be requested. You may also register to vote during regular office hours: Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Tuesday evenings from 7 to 8.

1938 hurricane

The September 1938 hurricane knocked down an elm tree in the yard of the Lopaus house, as it was then known, owned by Herbert C. Barrows, North Wilmington nurseman. Bill Andrews, an employee, was sitting in his car eating lunch when the elm tree fell across his car. He was uninjured, and able to get out. Bill is standing on the tree, at left, in the photo taken shortly afterward.

In front is Bobby Barrows and his father Herb. The other man standing on the tree is either Myrt Sheldon or Harold Barton - no relation to Joe Barton, sitting on the tree. Joe is at this time living in Maine.

25 years ago

The September 29, 1960 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Danny Gillis demanded immediate action against trailers etc. in the area and insisted that town bylaws be enforced. He threatened to resign if the selectmen didn't back up the planning board in this matter. He noted that the laws were not being enforced and the trailers were "coming in droves."

Carl DeSuzo, DJ on WBZ was to present part of his lifestyles series "Africa, Giant at the Door" sponsored by the Jaycees, on Oct. 16.

Tony Janerico, owner and operator of the Shawheen Beauty Salon was pictured at work in his newly enlarged and renovated shop.

Fifty-one women were signed up for sewing lessons on Tuesday evenings at Wilmington High School.

Jon Meads wore the number 21 on his shirt, without which he reportedly wouldn't feel like a football player; number 39 was on the shirt of Jon Fairfield, a six-foot seven, 14-year-old 200 pounder who's brother Winston brought glory to the team a couple of years earlier.

The new princess phone, in color yet was being advertised by New England Telephone "the lightup dial and color goes anywhere in the house."

Seven residents of the Signore Development in North Wilmington made a report to the planning board regarding progress on a $5000 bond which was supposed to guarantee sidewalks and curbs - so far none. The town would not pay if the bond could be held. A date of Christmas was set for determination.

Elizabeth Tattersall of Grove Avenue was drawn for jury duty at East Cambridge. Webster Hall of Linda Road was drawn to serve in Lowell.

Paul Lynch met with selectmen regarding construction of a new police station. The committee in charge had run out of money and policemen had installed tile, and a flagpole. Lynch was urging that selectmen approve the work so the money would be forthcoming.

Wilmington lost its football opener to Burlington 12-6. Jimmy Melzar smothered one of Burlington's plays early in the last quarter and Greg Phillips got through once to spoil a play, but it was not enough.

Plans for the widening of Route 38 in Wilmington and Tewksbury were shelved by the Mass. D.P.W.

Fitzgerald Fuel Oil Co. announced with pleasure the appointment of Tim Cunningham to its sales department.

National Merit honors went to three Wilmington High School students. Peter Neilson, son of Capt. Larz and Elizabeth Neilson of High Street was named as a semifinalist. Claire Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Graham of Eames Street and Michael Stanley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowman of High Street, received letters of merit.

Leonard Galvin of Chestnut Street was named president of St. Thomas C.Y.O. Kathleen Kenney was to serve as vice president and Philip O'Brien as secretary.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

As a Wilmington taxpayer I have always been under the impression that Wilmington recreation programs were open to everyone who lives in town. I found out Monday, Sept. 23 that this is not the case. I went to sign up my two sons for basketball and was told by Mr. Ron Swasey that my 13-year-old son could not join because he also plays on a travelling basketball team. His reason was conflicting schedules. Last year the travelling team played 35 games and my son was unable to make one recreation game out of 12, which doesn't sound like much of a conflict to me.

I suggested that the people involved in making out the schedules get together and work out the problems. But as is usually the case, the adult personalities got in the way and the losers are the 35 boys who play on travelling teams. In years gone by, the hockey players were never banned from playing town basketball because they had a hockey game scheduled at the same time.

How can anyone discriminate against boys who just want to play basketball?

These are the future high school basketball players and at this stage in their age group (10 to 14) maximum gym time and out of town experience are of the utmost importance.

Thank you,
Joanne Oliver

Dear Larz:

We are writing this letter in defense of our building inspector, William Granfield. It is his responsibility to enforce the many state building codes and each of the tremendous amount of local zoning bylaws that are mandated by the voters at our town meetings (by a two-thirds majority at that). He has an important but nearly overwhelming task.

It is absolutely impossible to expect that he and one secretary can complete all the forms, reviews, reports, inspections and code work required during this period of phenomenal growth now in progress in Tewksbury, despite the help of plumbing and wiring inspectors.

According to the 1974 Town Report when the new State Building Code went into effect Mr. Granfield reviewed plans for 60 multi-family units and issued permits for six new Commercial constructions and 34 new single dwellings. Now, only 10 years later, according to the 1984 Town Report, permits were actually issued for 283 units in 52 multi-family dwellings, for 13 new Commercial buildings and 118 new single dwellings. Many more permits were issued for additions to present single and commercial units. Many permits even require multiple inspections. Yet he has the same staff.

Obviously his work load has increased tremendously. Last year his office collected $116,746.44 in fees, up considerably from $15,934 10 years earlier. Wouldn't this increase warrant paying for at least one more full time assistant and some extra secretaries to help in this important job?

And now the Appeals Board wants Mr. Granfield to attend their meetings on the score of variance requests that come in monthly? He has already turned down the builder's application for a permit that resulted in this request for a variance. Isn't that enough?

Enclosed is a copy of one letter that he sent to the Selectmen upon the granting of a USE variance in the past. Despite his protests the Appeals Board went beyond its jurisdiction and issued the variance (and are now being taken to court because of it by the DAV abutters), so why should he waste his time when he is already overworked? They apparently don't really want his input.

We ourselves have taken out building permits on two occasions and have found him to be very thorough, helpful, and at all times observant of our strict building codes and zoning bylaws. Why not ask for letters from people who believe that he is doing his job, instead of asking for complaint letters from people who would prefer that nobody was placing requirements on them? We'll bet you'd get more than six! How sad it would be if potential homeowners had no one to look out for their interests and safety. We'd all be at the mercy of a few money hungry developers.

Mr. Granfield appears to be the only one concerned about enforcing the laws. He should have the unqualified support, appreciation and gratitude for his efforts from each of our selectmen. Who else is there to protect us in our most important financial investment, our home?

Mr. Granfield deserves two weeks of vacation with pay as a gift and not as a punishment! We may not always agree with him, but he's only doing his job.

Sincerely,
Edward Flanagan

Dear Larz:

This letter is in regard to last week's headlines on the subject of the Town of Wilmington's hiring of the Arthur D. Little Co. to study the feasibility of our own electric power plant fueled by natural gas.

I must say I think this is a sound idea, that will insure a reasonable cost for electricity to Wilmington's citizens, residential as well as the business community alike.

The only suggestion I wish to make through this media is this: I feel the study should include the feasibility of a high breed fueling system, mainly rubbish.

Rubbish disposal will become the number one issue facing not only this town, but all cities and towns in the Commonwealth of Mass. It will grow into an extremely costly situation that will eventually have to be dealt with.

If this facility incorporated these two major problems we would solve two major future needs. Electricity and rubbish disposal.

Some out of state facilities require residents and businesses to separate rubbish, bottles, cans, newspapers, metal, etc. These items are recycled for cash, while rubbish is burned cleanly as fuel to generate electricity. This is nothing new. It's been done in Japan and as close as Resco in Lynn, Ma.

This is a great opportunity for the Town of Wilmington to solve two of its future major problems while we have the foresight and the land.

Thank you,
George P. Tentindo

Editor's note: Wilmington rubbish is now being processed into energy at the new NESWC incinerator in North Andover, a multi-million dollar facility completed earlier this year.

Commissioners veto sewer tie-ins

Jim DeCarolis of Tewksbury will not participate in the construction of a new sewer, on Cedar Street in Wilmington. DeCarolis learned the news on September 19 in a meeting with the Wilmington Water & Sewer Commissioners.

Nor will the owners of 53 acres of industrial land, off Andover Street, at Upton Drive be able to connect to the sewer which has recently been constructed on Ballardvale Street, a quarter of a mile or so westerly of their property. There happens to be a small right-of-way, connecting their property to Ballardvale Street. The owners were proposing to use that right-of-way for a sewer, if they could construct one.

That property, up to about a year ago was the site of the Wilmington Ice Arena, now closed down. Other industrial buildings have been constructed on the site as well. In turning down the two proposals on September 19 the sewer and water commissioners had a new phrase added to their vocabulary. Commissioner Arthur Smith termed the proposals "Chinese water clocks," a phrase that was heard more than once in the subsequent discussions.

The commissioners turned down DeCarolis' proposal because the plans for the proposed sewer are ready, and they did not want to start all over again. They hope to put in the sewer before the bad weather of winter starts.

He offered several times to add to the monies that would be spent, but the commissioners were not interested. DeCarolis said that, in their working together, the town and he could save money. Chairman George Allan answered "No way!"

The town meeting which authorized the bonding for the sewer talked about betterments, Allan said, but it did not talk about gifts. The proposal of DeCarolis raised many questions in terms of legality. "If you had been here six months ago, you would have been in a better position to make your proposal."

Commissioner Smith added that the commissioners had "been the whole route" - town meeting, bonding, counsel, and planning. "We never saw you!"

Smith added that there is a master plan, for the sewerage of the Burlington Avenue area, and that the DeCarolis land should be a part of that plan. He was not interested, he said, in a "Chinese water clock."

The Wilmington Board of Selectmen, Smith said, accepted a "Chinese water clock" system on Industrial Way, before the planning of sewers was turned over to the then Water Department.

"We want to see all sewers on a gravity system, without having pumping stations to maintain, and to go wrong. Our rules are very stringent. We cannot afford to clean sewers. It costs more money than it's worth."

Allan added that if any proposal was to be accepted to change the Cedar Street sewer "the red tape would tie us up until Christmas." That would mean there would be no construction of a sewer to go to Dewing Way until sometime in 1986.

The proposal to tie into the Ballardvale Street sewer was, to Smith, another "Chinese water clock." The proposal was in writing, and was answered the same way.

The commissioners have, in their master plan, plans to put sewers in Andover Street after they have succeeded in crossing Route 93, probably at Concord Street. The Ballardvale Street sewer, while approved by the commissioners, is a private development, not paid for by town funds. The commissioners were not interested in private developments other than making certain that they conform to the approved plans.

The 53 acres off Andover Street will have to use the Andover Street sewer, if and when it is constructed, seems to be the thinking of the water and sewer commissioners.

Tewksbury planners vote garage site permit

Tewksbury Planning Board members voted September 9 to issue a needed site plan special permit to allow development of a storage garage at the site of a repair facility off Shawsheen Street.

The vote came after the board heard the concerns of a direct abutter to the project. That neighbor, Helma Grigas, was unable to attend an August 12 public hearing for the project, but asked to make comments before the board cast their vote.

The permit is being issued to Gary Patch, a local developer and landscaper. During the public hearing, other area residents had opposed Patch's plans to construct a storage building near an existing condominium type garage located behind the Southworth Machinery Caterpillar dealership near the railroad tracks on Shawsheen Street.

Patch plans to build a second building on his parcel so owners of repair facilities in the multi-unit condo type garage can use it to store heavy equipment undergoing repair. Heavy equipment under repair on the site is currently being stored outside.

However, residents questioned whether Patch would be held to the plans announced the August 12 site plan review public hearing. Planners assured them and Grigas that Patch would be required to clean up the area, build a fence and plant a tree buffer zone around his site before being allowed to build the storage facility.

Patch built the original facility after gaining a board of appeals special permit to operate a motor vehicle repair facility. He was later shot down by selectmen when he sought a license to also operate a truck trailer dealership on the lot.

Neighbors complained heavy equipment stored on the site has turned the lot into a junk area and that Patch did not hold to his promise to provide a buffer zone between the establishment and the residential areas of nearby Old Stage Coach Road and Vale Street.

The residents also say crews working for Patch cut down trees on a Grigas' lot when the building was first constructed. They also complained that the lack of trees around the boundary of Patch's facility has allowed the noise from the operations on the site and the vibrations of the trains passing by to filter into their back yards.

Patch admitted his crews mistakenly cut some trees that should not have been cut down when erecting the first building and that a law suit over the matter had been cleared up. He also said the new building would actually help alleviate some of the things the neighbors had complained about.

Grigas said the trees Patch cut down allows noises from the site and from trains to reach her backyard. She and other residents complained that before the trees were cut they were never able to hear the trains.

Grigas said that vibrations from the trains have shaken her house so hard that there have been cracks in her walls and dishes have fallen from shelves. She claims that the trees Patch's workers mistakenly cut down when the site was first developed used to absorb some of the train vibrations before hitting her house.

Planning Board Chairman Robert Sullivan, however, said that he also lives adjacent to the same freight rail line and that the vibrations from the trains that rumble by at night have increased. He said the trains are louder now than they ever have been.

Patch said he would like to replant the trees cut down last April in an effort to reduce the noise filtering onto neighboring lots.

Grigas was adamant that Patch construct a buffer of new trees to replace the ones that were knocked down during construction of the first building. Patch agreed to construct that buffer zone and will also build a six foot high stockade on his property to screen a view of the property from Grigas' lot.

Patch plans to build a small cinder block storage facility that will be used as an accessory building to the primary structure on the site. He also plans to place a small addition onto the primary building.

There is also drainage work planned for the site. The engineer for the project, David Jordan from Andover Consultants, said the existing parking lot would be re-graded and that a catch basin would be added in the middle of it.

The catch basin would catch rain run off on the site and channel it to a ditch that runs alongside the eastern boundary of the site and eventually empties into a wetlands to the south of the site. The water eventually ends up in the Shawsheen River.

Planners also told the residents the existing building was constructed before the site plan review bylaw went into effect and because of that the board had no real say on how the site was first developed.

Memorial service for Rev. Watson

The Reverend Eugene S. Watson, for fourteen years the pastor of the Tewksbury Baptist Church, was remembered in a forty five minute church program Sunday afternoon, in the First Baptist Church.

Participants in the program were the Rev. Veronica Lannier, Minister of Christian Education for the American Baptist Churches of Massachusetts, the Rev. John Minott, pastor of the Central Baptist Church of Chelmsford and the Rev. Thomas Rice, pastor of the Tewksbury Baptist Church.

The Rev. Mr. Watson is best remembered in Tewksbury for being the person who originated the Ecumenical Choir, which has and continues to enrich the lives of many persons. The Ecumenical Choir has programs for the four churches to which the members belong each year, culminating in a wonderful program at Christmas time, in St. William's Church.

In the Baptist Church the Rev. Mr. Watson started junior and senior choirs, which continue to enrich the lives of the people of that church.

Cast selected for 'California Suite'

The cast has been announced for the Silver Lake Spotlighters' November 15 and 16 production of the Neil Simon comedy hit, California Suite.

Adrienne Bonaccorsi of Malden and Bill Boyer of Dorchester play Hannah and William Warren in "Visitor from New York," a classic Neil Simon vignette about a divorced couple seeking to resolve the question of with whom their teenaged daughter will live.

In "Visitor from Philadelphia," Joe Daisey of Arlington plays Marvin Michaels, a happily married man who wakes up with a gargantuan hangover and a hooker (Kristine McCormick of Woburn) in his bed. Carolyn Hickok of Waltham has been cast as Millie Michaels, his devoted and loving wife who unwittingly surprises Marvin and his overnight guest.

"Visitors from London" will feature Caroline Crosby of Beverly as Diana Nichols, a British actress up for an Academy Award, and Richard Hancock of Lowell as her husband, Sidney.

The vinal vignette, "Visitors from Chicago," a farce that features one comic disaster after another, has John Cullen of Lowell and Cecile Murray of Peabody playing Mort and Beth Hollender. Their best friends, Stu and Gert Franklin, are played by Delmar Hicks of Woburn and Carolyn Hickok of Waltham.

Director for California Suite is Celia A. Bartolotti of Arlington. Madeline Anderson of North Reading is the producer.

Five-story building proposal cut to three

Developers have reduced a proposed five story building to a three story building after learning the site would not yield the required amount of parking to support a five floors.

The five story office building would have fallen into compliance with town zoning bylaws for height in a heavy industrial zone. That bylaw allows a 60 foot tall, or five story, building in industrial zones as long as the site will hold enough parking.

Bylaws require one parking space for every 200 square feet of net floor area in the building. Developers said their proposed five story building would yield 42,190 square feet of net floor area and would require some 211 spaces. However, their site can only yield some 128 spaces, or enough to build a three story building. The three story building will have 25,313 square feet of net floor area, requiring some 127 spaces.

Planners took the issue under advisement Monday and will decide whether to issue a required site plan review special permit.

Both the Tewksbury and Andover conservation commissions have approved the project's wetland work.

Engineers for the project, being proposed by the Shawsheen Nominee Trust, presented the plans to construct the building on a 2.3 acre parcel at the corner of Shawsheen and East street during a required site plan review hearing.

One of the individuals involved in the Nominee Trust is the nephew of Planning Board Chairman Robert Sullivan. Sullivan, however, did not step down from the board during the hearing and will apparently cast his vote on the project when the board decides whether to issue the required site plan special permit for the project.

Sullivan said he reviewed the state's conflict of interest law and decided that he could take part in the decision making process on the project because he had no direct financial involvement.

The parcel of land for the project is partly in Andover and partly in Tewksbury. Engineers, however, said the entire building will be on the Tewksbury side of the site. Only parking spaces will be on the Andover side. Access to the site will also be from the Tewksbury side.

The parcel is right on the corner of Shawsheen Street and East Street where Dascomb Road starts. A 12 foot to 15 foot wide strip of land on the corner will be left undeveloped so the intersection of Shawsheen and East can be widened in the future.

That entire area is already feeling heavy development pressure. Digital Equipment is planning a new building for Dascomb Road in Andover and several other smaller office buildings are either already going up or are on the drawing board.

Some traffic improvements have been made near the Interstate Route 93 access ramps. Those improvements include a widening of the road. Future plans call for the widening of the Shawsheen Street intersection and the flattening of a hill further up on East Street. None of those improvements, with the exception of the developers setting aside some 12 to feet 15 wide portion of their land for the intersection widening, are being made part of this project.

The major issue addressed during the hearing was the parking situation. Because the Andover part of the project is for parking only, the developers went before the Andover Zoning Board of Appeals to gain a variance to allow them to use the Andover parcel for an accessory use without having a building, or primary use. They got that variance, but were turned down in their effort to get a variance to allow their parking lot to extend less than 50 feet from Dascomb Road.

Andover requires that pavement be at least 50 feet from a roadway. The developers were seeking to have their parking lot pavement closer than 50 feet from the roadway, but Andover's appeal board denied that.

Because of that denial, the developers lost the ability to build some parking spaces. Because of the lack of required parking, the engineers present at the hearing told planners the developers would build only the amount of floors that the parking would allow.

Planners suggested the developers go before the board of appeals in Tewksbury to gain a variance for parking. The argument was that the developers are faced with a hardship because they lost a certain amount of parking spaces when they set aside the corner of their lot for the road widening.

Addressing the drainage issue, engineers said the site drains from Shawsheen Street toward Andover, in a west to east direction. The engineers proposed that the current drainage flow be retained and that a retaining wall be built along the back of the parcel. That wall would intercept the easterly flowing water at the rear of the site and channel in a southerly direction where it would enter a retention pond and slowly be allowed to enter a southerly flowing brook in Andover that feeds into the Shawsheen River.

Engineers also said there are no solid plans to construct the building until sewerage is available to the area. Although the engineers and the planners were confident the area will be served by sewerage, the engineers have set aside of part of the site for a septic system.

The town plans to extend a sewer to Leston Street, but not until the spring of 1987. When that line is built, the developers can hook their own sewer line into a line Digital Equipment will build up East Street to tie their planned project into the Tewksbury system.

When Digital puts in that sewer, a hill along East Street as it approaches the intersection of Shawsheen will be cut down.

The engineers also indicated that a hill along Shawsheen Street as it approaches the site and East Street will be cut down during construction. That action will increase the visibility of the site from Shawsheen Street and increase visibility of the Shawsheen and East Street intersection for cars traveling Shawsheen Street.

Wilmington now owns property at Silver Lake

The Town of Wilmington has passed papers and now owns the Silver Lake property of Gerald Baizen, according to Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski. This parcel was the cause of some consternation on the part of selectmen last spring when it was learned an office building, termed an eyesore, would be erected on that spot.

Selectmen Monday night signed the order to clear title, which was then turned over to Town Counsel Alan Altman. Stapczynski had also ordered the Wilmington Department of Public Works to clean up the property.

TMHS runners display great spirit

The Tewksbury High School boys and girls cross country teams opened their seasons against two of the toughest teams in the Merrimack Valley Conference.

Although they suffered two defeats, a piece in this "tri-meet" with Haverhill and Chelmsford, the Tewksbury runners performed admirably and with great spirit.

In the girls race, Tewksbury's Renee Juchnevics proved she has become a well conditioned and highly competitive runner by staying up with the top girls from Haverhill and Chelmsford and finishing third. Her time for the 2.4 mile course was a very good 15:40, the best time ever run by a Tewksbury girl on the Chelmsford course.

Close behind Renee came Tewksbury's other top runners, Krissie Connor (who ran the course a full minute faster than she did one year ago) and team captain Peggy Forsyth. Tewksbury's next two finishers were Kristin Conley and Tricia Censullo.

The scores of the two meets were Chelmsford 21, Tewksbury 36; Haverhill 22, Tewksbury 35; the low score winning in cross country. Since Chelmsford and Haverhill, along with Lowell, are probably the best teams in the conference, the Tewksbury girls can look forward to some victories during the rest of the season.

The boys meets saw a runaway for Chelmsford in the match-up, and a heartbreaking one point loss to Haverhill in the second meet.

Tewksbury team captain Jeff Smith ran an outstanding race, covering the three mile course in 15:59. He was followed closely by teammate Bob Busch in 16:01. These two took fifth and sixth against the tough Chelmsford runners, and first and second against Haverhill.

The Haverhill meet was decided by the third, fourth and fifth runners from each team. After Smith and Busch, Haverhill took the next four places. Tewksbury's Brian Tremblay grabbed the seventh place stick, and then came three runners all timed in 18:10.

Tewksbury needed eighth and ninth to win, but unfortunately, a Haverhill runner slipped in between Steve Ellwood (who got 8th) and Jimmy Marsh (who got 10th) and thus Haverhill went away with a 27-28 victory.

The disappointing aspect of the Haverhill loss for Tewksbury was that the Redmen were competing without one of their top runners, senior Ed Piscopo, who runs with Smith and Busch. Ed is recovering from the flu and hopefully will be back in action when Tewksbury hosts Methuen Wednesday on the home course.

One bright note for the future at the Chelmsford meet was the fine performances turned in by Tewksbury's young junior varsity

Wilmington harriers, Hayden impress

The highlight of the first three Wilmington High School cross country meets has been the continued superb performance of senior Andrea Hayden.

In her most recent showdown with Lowell runners Rosa Cruz and Marsha Flynn, Andrea outdistanced the field with a 16:02 time over the 2.57 mile WHS course. This was Andrea's second fastest time ever.

Andrea's effort and the continued improvement of the WHS varsity distance runners should make for a very interesting season.

ATHLETICS AND ALCOHOL?

Believe me, any athlete who is worth his or her salt has to be at the peak of performance ... all the time! That's why the guys who play for me know how I feel about alcohol. A good athlete's two greatest assets are his mind and his muscle. Alcohol hits your muscles right where it hurts the most - your mind! So if you really want to be a winner - both on the field and off - Sack the bottle before it sacks you!

Good Luck
Wildcats!

TMHS girls start slowly

The Redmen field hockey squad has gotten off to a slow start, losing their first four games. Three of the losses were to the 1984 state tourney qualifying teams of Chelmsford, Wilmington and Lawrence.

Their opening loss was to Chelmsford, 2-0. Aggressive team play by defensive players Karen Corbett, Chris Kearns and Kerri Beaulieu contained the Chelmsford front line, allowing them only one goal in each half.

The Redmen came on strong in the second half, threatening the Chelmsford defense several times. The offense was led by Missy Glencross and Karen Smart.

The Redmen played an aggressive defensive game against the Wilmington Wildcats, holding the state tourney finalists to two goals.

The excellent goaltending of Cathy Driscoll (16 saves) and solid defensive play from Chris Kearns and Lori Nunziato held the Wildcats scoreless in the first half.

The Wildcats came back strong in the second half and scored the winning goal early in the second stanza.

Tewksbury lost to Dracut, 3-0. Dracut overpowered Tewksbury in the first half with aggressive team play. The Redmen picked up the tempo of the game in the second half and shot on goal 17 times, but came up scoreless. Karen Smart played well for Tewksbury.

The Redmen came up one goal short when the game ended at Lawrence. Lawrence scored its only goal late in the first half.

Tewksbury played its best game of the season, combining both good offensive and defensive play. Sophomore link Jeanne Muise played an excellent game. Forwards Lynn Ploof and Missy Glencross led Tewksbury on offense.

The TMHS record is now 0-4.

Tewksbury hosts Tyngsboro Monday, plays at Haverhill Wednesday, and hosts Andover Friday afternoon.

Stoneham kicks off Community Concert season

Harpist DeWayne Fulton appears on Sept. 29

The 1985-86 concert season of the Greater Stoneham Community Concert Association will open on Sept. 29 at 3 p.m. at the Stoneham High School, 149 Franklin St., just a half mile from Stoneham Square, with the appearance of the renowned master harpist DeWayne Fulton. To commemorate the 40th season, a reception for Mr. Fulton will follow the concert for members, supporters and friends.

The remaining concerts for the season are The Richard Jenkins Swing Quartet on Monday, Dec. 2; Richard Morris, organist, on Thursday, April 10; and The New York Light Opera Company on Wednesday, May 7. All of the concerts will be held at the Stoneham High School at 8:15 p.m.

Mr. Fulton was to appear for the concert group in October 1984 but due to unforeseen circumstances he had to cancel. Disappointed concertgoers will be pleased that the association was able to reschedule him for the present season.

Admittance to the concerts is by season membership card. For further information call Mrs. Robert Dearth, 438-9232, or call co-chairman membership person, Mrs. Robert Leavitt, 944-5262.

Members of the Richard Jenkins Swing Quartet both sing and perform the great classics of American Popular music — songs of Cole Porter, George Gershwin, Duke Ellington and their contemporaries, music of the Big Band Era, and contemporary tunes, all with rhythm and sparkle.

Richard Morris has appeared in the well-known duo Toccatas and Flourishes, in Stoneham in 1980, and now returns as solo artist this season. He has appeared at New York's Carnegie Hall, Town Hall, Lincoln Center, NBC's Today Show, and at the Kennedy Center in Washington. He is noted for his superb musicianship on his spectacular organ, his explanations of his music to the audience, and his comic remarks which keeps his audiences in stitches. One might liken him to Victor Borge, but when he sits down to play, he is all business.

And you don't have to be an opera buff to appreciate and enjoy the New York Light Opera Company. The four singers and pianist present a unique and highly entertaining program, combining flawless musicianship with a delightful operetta repertoire — Offenbach, Victor Herbert, Romberg and more, with just a few props, lots of humor, and a touch of class.

Membership in the Greater Stoneham Community Concert Association includes the four local concerts, and through its famous reciprocity arrangement, admittance to 30 or more separate concerts in Massachusetts — Framingham, Lowell, Salem, Worcester, and in New Hampshire — Portsmouth, Nashua, Manchester, Dover, Concord; and in Maine, Biddeford. Membership in the association is an opportunity for everyone to enjoy very diverse musical programs — solo and group singing, solo and instrumental ensembles, and orchestras, classical and modern dance and sometimes theatrical productions. Membership fees are very reasonable and membership is open to everyone.

Recognized as one of the most versatile harpists of our time, DeWayne Fulton is not only a master of the classical harp repertoire, but also an accomplished improvisationalist and stylist of traditional, popular and show music. Poetry and history recorded in street names

By JIM ROUILLARD

Most towns have their own Presidential Range: not of mountains, but of clutches of streets named for various heads of state, past and present: Washington, Adams, Lincoln, Roosevelt, Eisenhower, Kennedy.

There's even a small by-way in Stoneham which bears the name of the only American President ever to resign from office: Nixon Lane.

Washington, by the way, according to the publishers of Trivial Pursuit, is understandably the single most common place name in the United States, for streets, avenues, boulevards, squares and even communities.

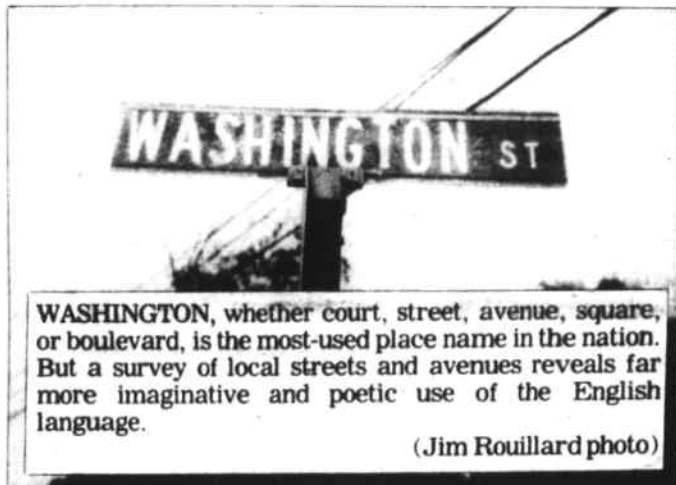

But studying maps of local cities and towns can provide more entertainment for an idle hour than lists of chiefs executive — revealing street names that reflect history, literature, woodlore, national heritage, collegiate pride — and run the gamut from the delightful and ingenious to the pretentious and absurd.

The source for the following reflections on street names, by the way, is an old, dog-eared 1974 Universal Atlas of Metropolitan Boston and Eastern Massachusetts (10th edition) which someone else threw out. A newer edition will no doubt yield even more delight.

With the dizzying increase in demand for homes within Route 128, "America's Technology Highway," and the outer "silicon belt" of Route

Republic's first chief executive.

Lincoln and Grant, to be sure, are represented there — with Avenue and Road after their 495, area housing costs continue to spiral at the rate of upwards of 27 percent per year, according to realtors — and in many communities the streets have come to reflect those higher costs with prestigious-sounding names.

Lynnfield, however, a place where the prestige of residence alone is held high among many townspeople — or at least developers — have shown a singular lack of pretension in street names. In fact, the muffin man of Drury Lane is given place there, as in other communities, though not even a dirt court or muddy by-way is named, in Lynnfield, for the respective names, and there is even a Lee Road (named for the genius general of the Confederacy). Yet the taste for Scottish and English literature and history has sprouted like sporadic mushrooms in expensive Lynnfield, with Ivanhoe Drive and Dunstan, Nottingham, Doncaster and Locksley Roads.

Woburn, on the other hand, looks to both accepted historical fact and to the fantasy of legend in her street names: from Baldwin Street to Dragon Court — as well as to past, present and future: with Emerson Street, Micro Drive and Sonar Place.

Of course there are occasional anomalies everywhere: Woburn's Stoneham Street runs directly into Winchester. And Winchester has placed Pocahontas, princess of the Virginia tribe of Chickahominy Indians, running off Mayflower Drive, slightly north of Pilgrim Road. But that's all right, for Agawam, Oneida, Samoset, Seneca and Squanto Roads are

Wilmington to bill water customers in Lost Colony

The Wilmington Water & Sewer Department is about to take over the billing of water bills for residents of the Lost Colony. The billing has been a sore point for some years. Those residents are supplied with water by the town of North Reading. The billing has been a sore point for some years. There is no way for that town to enforce payment if a householder falls behind in payments. One householder owes over $600.

The water commissioners in 1977 voted against such an idea, after having received a report from the water superintendent. Five homes were receiving water through little three-quarter inch pipes, some of which had not been buried deep enough to prevent freezing, the report said. Those pipes should be, (in Wilmington practice) at least six inches in diameter. The cost, not including some necessary blasting, was about $10,000.

Water Superintendent Paul Dugan Thursday night told the commissioners that the costs had probably doubled in the past 10 years.

The proposal came from Wilmington's town manager. North Reading will bill Wilmington for the water used, and the Wilmington Water Department will bill the homeowners in turn. If some homeowner does not pay, then the bill will be added to the tax bill.

The issue of water billing was on a list of subjects which the North Reading town administrator recently brought before the Wilmington Housing Authority (WHA). The WHA is planning to build three or four homes in the Lost Colony, a move which is opposed by North Reading officials. North Reading apparently has no power to prevent the WHA from building those homes. But Jeff Nutting, acting town administrator, presented Wilmington with a "shopping list" of issues, which included the billing for water in the Lost Colony.

Commissioner Arthur Smith voted yes - but the but was that Wilmington will not be responsible for maintaining or improving the present water mains.

Commissioner Maurice (Dice) O'Neil voted no.

Commissioner George Allan voted yes.

Town to send estimated tax bills

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski informed the board of selectmen Monday night that town residents will soon be receiving estimated tax bills instead of regular bills.

He instructed the assessor to get the bills out as soon as possible. This action has been taken as the state doesn't anticipate recertifying the rest of the towns on its list including Wilmington for at least another 12 weeks.

The estimated bills will be at the same rate as last year. When the new tax rate is certified, the bills will go out based on new valuation figures. The town conducted a revaluation this year, updating figures established during a major revaluation three years ago.

Housing authority has problems

Several problems have cropped up for the Wilmington Housing Authority (WHA), most of them having to do with heating and maintenance at the housing for the elderly at Deming Way.

Underground steam pipes running between the buildings have been developing leaks. One pipe burst in July 1984, followed by another. A third pipe broke on a weekend about two weeks ago. In that instance, maintenance man Ed Melanson was unable to get a backhoe, so he dug the necessary hole by hand.

The pipes were all replaced in 1978 at a cost of $30,000, after the original pipes were found to be corroded. Apparently when they were installed in 1957, the backfill was cinders, which contributed to the corrosion.

The new pipes were designed to resist external corrosion. The leaks are developing at the threaded ends of the pipes, due to internal rust.

Past executive director Ken Dorance spent $3100 on repairs, plus backhoe costs. The latest repair bill was $1265.

These and other maintenance problems have resulted in Melanson working more than the 30 hours a week for which he is paid. That figure is set by the state Executive Office of Communities and Development (EOCD). Most weeks, Melanson puts in at least 40 hours, with no pay for the extra 10 hours.

The housing authority discussed the problem of employees' pay in their meeting Monday night.

"You're breaking labor laws by him working for free," said Dan Gillis. "If it were reported, you'd be in trouble. But if there's no heat, and someone catches cold, you could have a suit."

The authority will take their problems to the state in a meeting with Amy Anthony of EOCD.

"It's too much for one man," said WHA Chairman Kevin McMillan. The authority plans to ask for an additional 10 hours for Melanson, plus a second man for 10 hours. Pay for other employees will also be discussed, along with money needed for maintenance and repairs.

Other maintenance problems have to do with the operation of the heating system, which has a switching device to allow the use of either gas or oil. This was installed in 1981.

Since then the housing has been exclusively heated by gas, since the switching device does not work. The man who installed it died in January.

A problem of an entirely different sort was also the subject of discussion. The U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development is seeking $13,124 in development costs for housing which was rejected by the town meeting about five years ago. Besides not having any money to pay the request, the present members of the housing authority cannot find many of the records relating to the rejected housing. Of the present members, only McMillan was on the authority at that time.

Gillis told the authority members that they are responsible for all that the authority has done. "But tell them to show you what they're talking about," he said.

"I'm not saying anything was wrong, because nobody here now knew," said Executive Director Lillian Buckley. "So I'm throwing it back at them (HUD)."

Wilmington police news

Several arrests were made last week by default warrant. Vincent Collela of Marcia Road was arrested by state police on a motor default warrant. State Police also arrested Gerald Williams of Lake Street on a Wilmington default warrant. Officer Redding arrested Victor Cataldo of Brand Avenue on a motor vehicle default, on Thursday evening, and officers McCue and LeGrand arrested Michael Shaw, of Redwood Terrace on three default warrants, two from Wilmington and one from Wakefield.

On Sept. 18 Sgt. Palmer arrested a local youth at the North Wilmington parking lot. Joseph Harvey of Mystic Avenue was charged with public drinking and taken directly to Woburn Court. A local man was arrested by Officer Steve LaRivee at about 6 p.m. Friday after a long chase from Wilmington through North Reading and Reading. The chase ended in Reading, when the car of Kelly P. Murray of Hathaway Road was hit by a Reading cruiser.

Murray was charged with operating while under the influence, refusing to stop for an officer, and multiple other offenses.

Five Tewksbury youths were arrested early Saturday morning after a house party on Catherine Avenue, Wilmington. arrested were Robert Hagerty, 21, of Shawsheen Street; David Fisher, 19, Kenneth Lowe, 18, Joseph Maccini, 18 and Thomas Fletcher, 19, all of Tewksbury. Tewksbury police and state troopers assisted at the scene. Sergeant Peterson, and Officers King, Hancock and Peterson made the arrests.

Arrested for disorderly conduct, all five pled guilty in the Woburn District court Monday and paid $140 each in fines.

They were arrested after a fight that broke out despite several attempts by the Wilmington police to quiet down the party.

State Police arrested a Charlestown man, Scott Duncan, on a Wilmington warrant, over the weekend, after a computer check revealed the outstanding warrant. He was turned over to the Wilmington police.

Two men were arrested shortly after 1 a.m. Monday and another man placed under protective custody. Officers Jim White and Jim Peterson, after a routine traffic stop arrested James Marchese, 19, of Billerica and Stephen Overton, 19, of Watertown. Both were charged with underage possession of alcohol. Both were held for appearances in Woburn Court.

There were 17 arrests, and 17 alarms during the week that ended Sept. 24. There were seven accidents, 13 disturbances, two cases of assault and battery, and three of breaking and entering.

There were two cases of larceny. Three persons were placed in protective custody and there were five reports of suspicious activity.

Nine trailbike complaints, six cases of vandalism and four traffic complaints completed the police log.

BLOODMOBILES

Blood donors are needed more than ever by the Northeast Regional Blood Services. The philosophy of providing blood for anyone regardless of race, creed or ability to replace the units needed only works when volunteers in each community donate on a regular basis. Most people who are healthy, over 18 years of age and weight over 110 pounds are allowed to give blood every 8 weeks. If there are any questions as to eligibility, one may call the Blood Services at 1-800-442-2053.

Upcoming bloodmobiles in the Eastern Middlesex Region are as follows: Thursday, Sept. 26, Stoneham Town Hall, 1-7 p.m.; Friday, Sept. 27, First Congregational Church, Wakefield, 1-7 p.m.; Sunday, Sept. 29, Masonic Hall, North Reading, 9 a.m.-2 p.m.; Monday, Oct. 7, First Baptist Church, Malden, 1-7 p.m.; Monday, Oct. 7, Moose Club, Malden, 2-8 p.m.; Monday, Oct. 7, St. Eulalia's Church, Winchester, 2-8 p.m.

Street names

all appropriately, if just barely, to the north of Pocahontas Street.

Moreover, though Woburn pays tribute to both Hiawatha and Evangeline, with a Road and a Street, it does nothing whatsoever for their creator, Longfellow, whose poems brought the famous characters to everyone's notice. Longfellow's college classmate, Nathaniel Hawthorne, at least has a street in Woburn that bears his name, but to find tribute to the longwinded poet, you must travel south (you can use Stoneham Street if you wish), to Winchester.

Reading also provides a Longfellow Street, but far too little opportunity for wit or satire, beyond slight puzzlement over the source for Dividence Road. Is it a person's name, a misprint, or a misspelling?

The namers in Reading displayed, generally, a little too much common sense for my taste, even going so far as to list eight streets, off Libby, with the first eight letters of the alphabet. Sensible, no doubt, and worthy of the Georgetown section, say, of Washington, D.C., perhaps, but not in a poetic New England town that can harbor Puritan, Priscilla and Hartshorn Streets within a few dozen acres.

North Reading is a bit more romantic than its immediate neighbor to the south, with Appian Way harking to ancient Rome, and Bliss Road providing whatever the imagination desires. There is also tribute to both Washington and his Mount Vernon home — a plethora of pines: Pine Avenue Road, Pinecrest Road, Pine Glen Drive and Pine Ridge Road — and another unusual name (according to the atlas) whose source I'd like to learn: Pluff Avenue.

Burlington, like Reading, is difficult to spoof. There is Barnum Road, but no permanent circus there — and a Druid Hill Avenue, though the nearest druids could only be the width of the Atlantic and several centuries distant.

Burlington has, as well, an Edsel Road, the name of the luxury car by Ford which bombed in the late 1950s — but there is also the light-hearted beckoning of Wine Terrace in that town.

In Stoneham, one developer found imagination and space to pay some regard to America's supposed discoverer, the monarchs who sponsored him, and one of his ships. Along Stoneham's Melrose Highlands border lie the following streets: Columbus Avenue, Isabella, Ferdinand, and Nina Streets — and yet the developer either sank the Pinta and the Santa Maria in the wetlands that end Isabella and Ferdinand Streets, or simply ran out of funds.

Stoneham made certain to cover all of daylight, as well, with the names of two of her streets, though Sunrise Avenue is distinctly west of Sunset Road, and there is absolutely no trace of a Midnight Manor or Dawning Drive.

In Wakefield, the very first streets to top the list must provide the post office some confusion: Aborn and Acorn Avenues — particularly if the mailer's handwriting is as poor as my own. There's a tribute to the Latin call to prayer in Wakefield's Angelus Street, and possibly one to Kenneth Roberts' novel, in Arundel Avenue. Wakefield is, by the way, the only community in this survey of 10 to give credit to the fast-growing, white-blossomed and green-beaned tree, with Catalpa Street.

The question of whether or not to use nuclear weapons in North Korea during the Korean "conflict" has only two representative partisans among the 10 communities, and results in an apparent stand-off, with one vote (bomb) for General Douglas MacArthur in Stoneham's MacArthur Road — and one (no bomb) for President Harry Truman in Wilmington's Truman Road.

Wilmington developers show a distinct taste for music in Melody Lane and Mozart Avenue — but that town also looks to history and astronomy, with a street named for Count Casimir Pulaski, Polish hero of the American Revolution — as well as one, Nova Street, named for the variable brightness of a star.

Yet it's to Tewksbury that we must turn for the richest riot of imaginative street names, denoting virtually every kind of tree (except catalpa), weapons (Mace Street and Tomahawk Drive), beast (Catamount Road), Indian (Mohawk, Cayuga and Pennacook), potato chip (Pringle), bird, berry, nut and fruit (Tanager, Bayberry, Walnut and Grape) and what looks to be a tangle of streets named for just about every state and territorial possession in the Union.

But of the newer streets — up to 1974 — the prize, for unaffected euphony, and simple poetry without pretension, has to go to a pair in Winchester:

Amberwood Drive and Wind-song Lane.

Holland and was immediately engaged for scores of performances throughout that country, as well as France and Germany. Fulton made his New York solo harp debut at Lincoln Center's Alice Tully Hall in 1983 and has performed in duo-recital with vocalist at Carnegie Hall. Presenting a repertoire which encompasses a wide variety of musical styles, DeWayne Fulton regularly tours throughout the United States, giving demonstrations and recitals on both the concert grand and Irish folk harp for such illustrious institutions as The Julliard School of Music, the University of Southern California and the University of Arizona. He has recorded 16 popular and classical albums and published many transcriptions for the harp which encompass a variety of musical possibilities, including electronic alterations. When the artist was residing in Japan, he appeared regularly on Japan's NHK television network.

Among the many special events and state occasions for which DeWayne Fulton has performed are the Honolulu Summit Conference of 1968 with former President Lyndon Johnson in attendance; an appearance before Emperor Hirohito of Japan at the Japanese Imperial Palace; and numerous presentations for the U. S. Ambassador to Japan at the American Embassy, as well as performances at the famous Palace Hotel in Tokyo.

Born in Tulsa, Oklahoma and raised in California, DeWayne Fulton studied both cello and piano at an early age and began harp studies at the age of 15 with the principal harpist of the San Francisco Symphony, Kajetan Attl. After attending The Julliard School of Music and the Academy of Music in Vienna, DeWayne Fulton spent several seasons at the Mozarteum in Salzburg and Sienna, Italy, attended the master classes of Nicanor Zabaleta. His other teachers include Edward Vito and Herbert Jelinek.

Retired Men's Club of Wakefield

WAKEFIELD — At the sounding of the call to order bell, outgoing president Leslie Merrifield, started the beginning of the 23rd year, 1985-1986 season of the Retired Men's Club of Wakefield.

With an enthusiastic audience of over 225 in attendance, as is the custom every year, the opening guest speaker was the pastor of the First Parish Congregational Church in Wakefield, Dr. Richard Weisenbach. The theme for Rev. Weisenbach's talk was entitled The Three "R's" of Retirement.

Using Luke:19 the story of Zacchaeus, the repentant tax collector of Jericho as the basis for his talk, Rev. Weisenbach brought out the three "R's," Run, Repent, and Resolve. Run - Zacchaeus, being very small in stature, was the most

GET YOUR PAWS ON A FURSKIN.

They're huggable. Lovable. And they're the most rambunctious things to come out of the North Georgia hills since that catchy vine called kudzu. They're the Furskins. And grab 'em while you can 'cause they're going fast.

Each of the four, handcrafted, limited-edition bears comes with freckles, ambition, a storybook and Xavier Roberts' signature embroidered on its paw. So c'mon by and get your paws on a Furskin. Once you do, you'll never let go.

Alliance for Mental Illness officers elected

At the last meeting of the Alliance for Mental Illness of Eastern Middlesex, Eileen Trainor of York Terrace, Melrose, was elected president. Ann Brigida of Reading, one of the founders of the local chapter who has been serving as president since the group was organized in the spring of 1983, will serve as program chairman in charge of securing speakers for our meetings.

The AMI is a nonprofit group for support and advocacy for the mentally ill with its focus on improving the laws and has membership in the AMI of Mass (state) and NAMI (national) which now has membership of over 25,000 families and friends nationwide. AMI advocates in the State House in Boston as well as in Washington, and as a result our State Legislators and our Representatives and Senators are being educated about mental illnesses on schizophrenia and other mental illnesses which seem to be affecting more and more of our young adults through no fault of their own. Many of the medications used for treatment today were not known 20 years ago. While it is a vast improvement, no permanent cure is yet known, so the research must go on. Mental illness can be successfully treated, but not without side effects which sometimes seem worse than the ailment. Through the efforts of AMI members, national drug companies are becoming involved, and some of the largest are committed to this research and development of safer, more effective treatment. Newspapers, magazines, TV programs — all are showing a growing interest in this tremendous national problem. Hardly a day goes by without a program or an article bringing to public attention new information well presented with a feeling of compassion for those who suffer with mental illnesses. It is not hopeless...it can be improved...and with strong public support it can be done.

The next meeting of AMI is September 25 at Our Place, 38 Pleasant Street, Stoneham at 7:30 p.m. Speaker will be Joan Rapp, Associate Area Director, DMH Eastern Middlesex Area Office covering the communities of Melrose, Wakefield, Stoneham, Reading and North Reading. Her topic will be "The Area's Plans for Residential Development and Rehabilitation Services." This is an open meeting with no admission charge and all are welcome. For further information call Eileen Trainor, 665-0737.

disliked man in Jericho. He had heard of the parade to see the Lord. Being small and not being able to see over the crowd, Zacchaeus climbed a tree. The Lord, seeing Zacchaeus in the tree, asked him a favor. "Feed me," he said. Being shunned by the others and thrilled by having the Lord ask him, the most hated man in town, Zacchaeus accepted.

Although the crowd couldn't see it, the Lord saw an insight into Zacchaeus. After the meal Zacchaeus announced to the crowd he was giving one half of what he had to the poor and would give back fourfold to anyone he had cheated. The Lord said, "Salvation has come to this house. I asked a favor and I eat." Jesus showed Zacchaeus what he could be and what he had become.

During this conversation with Zacchaeus he was able to bring out many things. Through this conversation we get the second "R" which is Repent.

The third was Resolution. Through this story Jesus showed the Love for us and we can change it if we want it to be.

Preceding Dr. Weisenbach was a coffee break from 9 to 9:30 a.m. At 9:30, Past President, Thomas Coughlan of Melrose inducted the following officers for the year.

President: George Richards, Reading; 1st Vice President: Frank X. Day, Reading; 2nd Vice President: Alfred E. Webber, Wakefield; Treasurer: Robert D. Mathias, Wakefield; Asst. Treasurer: Charles M. Strauss, Melrose; Club Registrar: Ralph H. Wentzel, Wakefield and Asst. Secretary: Andrew McHugh, Saugus.

Secretary Woodrow Baldwin, Reading, was absent and will be inducted at the next meeting. Committee chairmen gave the following reports. The Safety Committee will meet September 25 in the upstairs library at 9. Bowling at the Wakefield Bowldrome, Monday and Thursday at 1 p.m. The Stamp Club will meet September 24, at the Wakefield Library, second floor.

The Travel Club will go to the Deerfield Fair, Deerfield, N.H. on September 27. Price to be announced at the next meeting.

Plans are being made to go to Saybrook, Conn., in October. Cost to be determined later.

The Ladies' Day luncheon will be held on October 23.

Reading of the birthday list revealed only nine of the 24 were present. The door prizes were won by Joseph Halliwell and Lee Chisolm. Monte Zopatti of Reading was the only visitor for the morning.

Robert Hall, Edward Clark, George Cash and Joseph Amelotte were advanced to second readings. Zynek Zagaja was formally inducted into the club.

First Vice President, Frank Day, said the meeting on September 25, would have Mrs. Marcia Wiswald, director of the Lynnfield Public Library as the guest speaker. Her subject will be "Tracing Your Family Tree."

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

The best friend a man has in the world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter who he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those who we trust with our happiness and good name may become traitors to that faith. The one absolutely unselfish friend that man can have in this selfish world of ours, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous is "his dog."

Brother you know you're getting old when the gleam in your eye is a reflection off your bifocals, your knees buckle but your belt won't, you sit in your rocking chair and can't get it going, you're 17 around the neck, 42 around the waist and 96 around the golf course. Folks, we can't live in the past or in the future, we must live for today and be thankful.

Summer is gone, winter draws on and I'm not ashamed to say that I wear them.

Father Robert Burns of Woburn was carrying a step ladder, so I asked him if he got a job painting hydrants. "No," Bob replied, "any idiot can see that I'm going to a High Mass." After a long winded sermon, My Aunt Maria from Wilmington said "Father your sermon was like water to a drowning man." One robin does not a summer make, but one lark sometimes produces a fall.

Folks, none of us should ever have to genuflect or bow to any human mortal. Kings, Queens, presidents or movie stars are no better than any one of us. We and they and all of us must of necessity sit on the John every day.

Queen Victoria said to Prime Minister Gladstone (who was persistent in having a measure to help the poor passed) "Sir Gladstone, you forget who I am, I am the Queen of England." "Your Majesty," replied Gladstone, "you forget who I am, I am the People of England." It would serve the elected officials well to remember that the mechanic working under a car, the carpenter on a staging, the men and women doing so-called menial but necessary work and the housewives and mothers, etc. trying to keep a home together that "they" are the REAL cities and towns whom they "represent."

A politician ran into a newspaper office and shouted to the editor, "What you said about me is all lies!" "You haven't anything to worry about then," responded the editor, "until the 'truth' is published about you!" How times have changed — who would ever dream of buying a can of tuna fish in a drugstore? Well, you sure can in some of them today; also paint, pots and pans and maybe a drill press. I don't know how you feel about it but a hardware store is not the place to buy aspirin — and a drug store is not the place to buy sandpaper.

I guess these chips give me away as an old timer — but I'm not really — I admit having old ideas. I remember movies when they were silent now most of them are "unspeakable."

Woodchips congratulates Bob and Carole Young of Tewksbury who will celebrate their 30th wedding anniversary. Marriages that last that long show a great deal of understanding, tolerance and this above all else — love for one another! God bless you and your family.

Mike Finnegan and I graduated high school and joined the Navy. We were both lucky he was assigned to the Battleship Texas and I on the Carrier Wasp. Whenever the 14 inch guns on the Texas had to be cleaned, Mike was the one chosen (because of his caliber) to go in there and do a commendable job. One day going down to the ship's galley for "seconds" proved to be Mike's downfall — he got stuck in one of the gun barrels. It was decided that the best way to get him out was to gently shoot him out, by chance or design a little too much powder was put into the breech and poor Mike went sailing over Okinawa. The Japanese panicked when they couldn't make out this UFO. Thinking it was America's secret weapon they gave up and that speeded up the end of WW II.

In my book, Mike Finnegan, you are a hero. I saw him recently and he told me he was thinking desperately of getting married. "Mike," I said to him, "I know many fine young ladies, but I don't know any desperate enough to marry you."

Rocco DePasquale, owner of Mr. Spumoni's Ice Cream Factory in Wilmington, celebrated the completion of a 96 foot stone wall with its large planting area and a birch tree that is in just one word "beautiful." I remember a few years ago when my father built a stone wall along side of our house and our neighbor Lou O'Malley took "O'Fence to it." Incidentally, Mr. DePasquale, "Rocco" in Italian means "Stone" in English.

A word of advice to the young men. "If you find that you're only a little 'pebble' in your girlfriend's life try being a little 'boulder.'"

The house that I was born in must have been built by "bootleggers." The foundation is "stoned," the walls are "plastered," the windows have a "paneled glazed look, and when I look at the steps they "stair" right back at me but we were a happy family, my father, mother, and eight sisters and brothers. We were always in "high spirits, especially when the "moon shined" over our heads.

My Uncle Tom worked in a brewery, but unfortunately one day he tripped and fell into a mixing vat and drowned. They had ahold of him twice but he kept pushing them away. His wife, my Aunt Nora had him cremated and the fire burned for six days. It was a family joke for years that "Uncle Tom made an ash of himself."

James and Eileen Moynihan of Reading and Christine and Rep. Walter Boverini of Lynn, I sincerely hope that you told our dear Cardinal Bernard F. Law at your meeting with him that there was a beautiful poem about him in an August issue of the Middlesex East Supplement.

Congratulations to the following Stoneham residents; Eileen McDonough, who was appointed a member of the Council on Aging. I also congratulate Selectmen Richard Managerian, Michael Rolli, Kathleen Sullivan and Cosmos Ciccarello for choosing Eileen. Also, Peter DeCola who was chosen defensive tackle for the U.S. Coast Guard Academy team and Richard Rotondi who is a semi-finalist in the 31st annual Merit Program conducted by National Merit Scholarship Corp. Richard's father is a School Committee member in Stoneham.

Tracing your family tree

Mrs. Marcia W. Wiswall will speak to the Wakefield Retired Men's Club at their Sept. 25 meeting at the First Parish Congregational Church in Wakefield. Her subject will be "Tracing Your Family Tree."

For many years, Mrs. Wiswall has been interested in genealogy and has traced her own ancestors back to seven Mayflower passengers. She teaches courses in genealogical research for the North Shore Community College and for the Essex County Society of Genealogists, of which she is president.

Mrs. Wiswall has been director of the Lynnfield Public Library since 1968. In Lynnfield she has been active in civic affairs, serving on the Bicentennial Committee and as chairman of the Bicentennial Weekend of 1976. She is a member of the Lynnfield Historical Society and was editor-in-chief of Lynnfield: A Heritage Preserved, published in 1976.

The Wakefield Retired Men's Club meets on the second and fourth Wednesday of each month. A hospitality hour starts at 9 a.m. All retired men in the area are welcome to attend.

WHALE WATCH TRIPS

Greenpeace, the international environmental organization, is offering weekend whale watching trips into the fall until Oct. 13. The four hour trips depart from either Plymouth or Provincetown, Mass. The boats travel to Stellwagen Bank, a feeding ground for several species of Great Whales located six to twenty miles off the coast. According to spokesperson Emily Sherwood, the Greenpeace whale watches have had a 97 percent sighting rates since 1978.

The whales remain active in the New England area until late October when their migration to the Caribbean begins. Humpback whales, a favorite with whale watchers, often come within fifteen feet of the boats. Adult humpbacks are up to fifty feet long and weigh forty tons. They are known for their acrobatics, at times leaping completely out of the water. Finback and minke whales, dolphins, and many species of sea birds are also commonly seen.

Tickets can be ordered by calling Greenpeace at (617) 576-1650 or by writing to Greenpeace New England, 139 Main Street, Cambridge, Ma. 02142. Ticket prices are: adults $20, students and elders $17, children 6-12 $13, children five and under free, and groups of ten or more $15. Mastercard/Visa accepted. Over one-third of the tax deductible ticket price goes to support the work of Greenpeace.

MOVIE REVIEWS Rochelle Flynn

Lust in the Dust Into the Night

Into the Night starring Jeff Goldblum, Michelle Pfeiffer, Richard Farnsworth, Paul Mazursky, Roger Vadim. Directed by Jon Landis. Produced by George Folsey Jr., Ron Koslow. Screenplay by Koslow. Rated R (profanity, violence).

John Landis directs popular movies, as is apparent by The Blues Brothers, Trading Places and Animal House. Now, Into the Night can be added to the list. However, not only is his latest effort the type of action packed thriller that should do great at the box office, but with the exception of a contrived ending, it really is well made.

Jeff Goldblum plays a brooding engineer who is suffering from depression and insomnia, and cruises Los Angeles at night when he can't sleep. It is during one of his evening prowls that Diana (Michelle Pfeiffer) literally drops into his life, and the intrigue begins. Diana, a top fashion model, has done something quite illegal, and therefore can't report to the police the four assassins hot on her trail. Goldblum steps in as a knight in a shining compact, and drives her away to safety as the doordrums fly out of his life.

Into the Night is a rather unusual film in that the humor is more amusing than hilarious, and there are more chills than suspense. But, Landis draws his audience in with a plot that builds and twists in a way that is reminiscent of old-time detective films, like the Maltese Falcon and the Thin Man series. Characters, bodies and motives keep popping up until benevolent Richard Farnsworth points the way for Goldblum and Pfeiffer.

The cast reads like the Who's Who of Hollywood, and it really is fun to pick out famous faces as they meander across the screen. The more obvious are David Bowie and Dan Ackroyd. Cameo appearances are made by Paul Bartel and Jim Henson, while Vera Miles, country singer Carl Perkins and director Amy Heckerling have small parts. Greek actress Irene Pappas and directors Paul Mazursky, Roger Vadim and Landis appear in supporting roles.

It is unfortunate that the assassins in the film are bumbling Arabs, as they seem to be the group to pick on in the '80's, and the movie would have fared better without the racist overtones. Also, Landis lets the final few minutes slip away from him with a slick, predictable ending. However it is in his favor that Into the Night captures some of the most powerful and disturbing scenes Landis has ever filmed. There are also some great shots of L.A. after hours. And something for all you psychology majors: Landis saved the most intensely violent onscreen death for himself.

FATHER GARCIA, Cesar Romero (r) is shocked at Tab Hunter's confession in a scene from the Western comedy-spoof, "Lust in the Dust," a Fox Run Production for release by New World Pictures.

Lust in the Dust starring Tab Hunter, Divine, Lannie Kazan, Geoffrey Lewis, Henry Silva, Cesar Romero. Directed by Paul Bartel. Produced by Hunter and Allan Glaser. Rated R (profanity, violence, nudity).

What do you get when you put an obese transvestite, a faded matinee idol and a Jewish night club singer in a Western setting and give a camera to a slightly crazed director? Weirdness, that's what!

If nothing else, Lust in the Dust is an unusual film. You expect that much from the title. But, you also expect it to be funny, which Lust is, but only at intervals. Part of the problem is that it's difficult to keep a gag running for 90 minutes. The frantic pace of a parody wears thin after the first few minutes, which is why very few of them are successful.

The other female lead, however, is another story. For those of you who have not read about that phenomenon known as Divine, a short explanation is in order. Divine is a very large man who always dresses in drag and plays garish women in all of his/her roles. He/she gained fame by appearing in several very strange films made by John Waters that have now achieved cult status. Divine, however, did not act in Lust. Divine camped his/her way through the film, a trait that grew quite tiresome.

Geoffrey Lewis gives a great performance as an outlaw who corrects his own grammar and quotes from the bible. Tab Hunter and Cesar Romero look remarkably fit, though they have not really improved their acting abilities with age. But, a couple of well-preserved actors and a few decent gags aren't reason enough to buy tickets. The only way that Lust comes recommended is as a curiosity piece: See it if you want to catch a glimpse of Divine
